Neighborhood home tour in Huntington benefits charity

Recently, Mika Mitchell, from Star Real Estate - Seacliff, and Kirsten Tulinius from Washington Mutual - Seacliff, in partnership with Project Self-Sufficiency in Huntington Beach, held their first annual Moffett & Summerfield Neighborhood Home Tour.

The tour began at Drew Park in the Summerfield tract, where guests checked in, made donations to the Project Self-Sufficiency charity, ate sandwiches and chips, visited with home improvement and other neighborhood business vendors, then embarked on a self-guided tour through six open homes in the Moffett & Summerfield tracts.

Mitchell and Tulinius held the event for a number of reasons: it was an opportunity to meet additional neighbors in the Moffett & Summerfield tracts where they farm, to help out a good cause, to promote local businesses (thus the vendors at the park), and to give neighbors a chance to see other homes in their tracts to get ideas on how to upgrade.

The event raised close to $400 for Project Self-Sufficiency, which helps low-income, single parents get back on their feet. Participants requested that Mika and Kirsten bring the event back again next year.

Mitchell and Tulinius are big proponents of helping neighborhood businesses get established, which in turn promotes the growth of Huntington Beach.

Vendors that participated at the park were: Colonial Carpet, Faucets Galore, Bear Painting, Emotion Portraits, Korel Tile, Miranda Tile & Stone, Mission Pools, Parnell Garage Doors, www.PayYourMortgageOffEarly.com.
